McHENRY RHODES, FRANK L. FELIX
EDITORS AND PROPRIETORS.

LARGE CIRCULATION

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE, $1.50 PER YEAR.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 24.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

We are authorized to announce
J. A. BELLAMY
As a candidate to represent Ohio county in the Lower House of the next General Assembly. Subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are indebted to the Courier-Journal for the excellent cut of the late Hon. Henry D. McHenry that appears in the HERALD to-day.

DURING the discussion of the Force Bill in the Senate a few days ago, Senator Frye said that there should be a bayonet behind every ballot and that suffrages should be deposited at the muzzle of guns.
The Senator evidently feels the stinging rebuke the cause he espouses received at the hands of the people at the recent November elections. Granting this to be true, such statements as the above, emanating from a Senator of these United States, is too depraved and contemptible to have comment, and only serves to show how far the average Republican Senator is willing to go in order to hold the balance of power.

Our Christmas festivities will be tinged with the sad reflection that one of Ohio county's most honored citizens has gone to his last reward.
In the death of the late Hon. Henry D. McHenry, Ohio county not only lost a valued and respected citizen, but the State an nation sustained a loss that is well nigh irreparable.
In public walks as well as in private life, he was the generous-hearted, whole-souled man. Entering the legal profession at an early age, he received upon his own worthy shoulders the mantle worthily worn by his honored father before him, and soon won for himself a name among his fellow practitioners and countrymen.
As a legislator, his broad mind grasped great and grave state problems and gave to them practical and thoughtful solutions. In the political world he was a wise counselor, disdaining to use the tricks and schemes well known in the circles of political life. As a business man, he was successful, as his landed, mining and banking interests attest. The number of people who attended his funeral, both from the county and abroad, but shows the high esteem in which he was held by all who knew him. The local columns of the HERALD to-day bear ample evidence of the fact that he was a credit to his country and an honor to mankind. A good man has gone—peace to his ashes.

THE C. E. & C.

There has been a great deal of speculation, one way or another, as to what will be the final outcome of the Henderson State Line, now known by the longer and more commanding title of Chicago, Evansville and Chattanooga. Some are still dubious as to its building, and others are credulous enough to believe the subsidies voted will have to be paid, whether the road is ever built or not.
The special engineer who passed over the proposed route a few weeks since with the attorney for the company, has finished his preliminary survey, and will now make his report to the company of capitalists who propose to build the road. The Henderson Gleaner says:

It will be remembered that the Gleaner, about two weeks since, contained an interview with Hon. J. E. Williamson, who in company with engineer A. B.
Fitch, was in this city on the subject of the proposed line of the road to examine into all of the favorable and unfavorable points in its building. Mr. Fitch went over one of the proposed routes, viz., Bowling Green and returned another arriving in the city yesterday, having come horseback. In a conversation with a representative of the Gleaner yesterday, the engineer expressed himself as more than pleased with his trip and the advantages the route possesses in the way of producing a paying railroad investment. He was particularly pleased with his reception along the line of the proposed road, and was impressed with the sincerity, anxiety and frankness of the people concerning the building. He too, was impressed with the resources of the country through which it is proposed to build the road, and gives it as his opinion that there are no great difficulties to be overcome in its rapid building, should it be determined to undertake it. As stated in the previous interview, the building of the road will greatly depend upon the report engineer Fitch will make to his people at New York. From what he has said, it is reasonable to suppose he will make a close estimate of the cost of building, and then the matter will be definitely settled.

SENATORIAL HYPOCRISY.

In the discussion of the Force Bill, some of the Senators from the North manifest a contemptible narrow-mindedness that is well nigh inexcusable. They are not willing to "do unto others as they would others would do unto them," but simply wish to do all the "doing" themselves, and want "others" to sit supinely still and take it. Senator Dolph, of Oregon, was speaking on the Force Bill, advocating that pernicious measure in the strongest terms, when Senator Eastis, of Louisiana, completely stumped him and made him "take in his horns," so to speak. Mr. Eastis asked him "If there were a million and a-half Chinamen in Oregon who had the right of suffrage and who established in Oregon a Chinese State government; and if the people of Oregon had overthrown that Chinese government and had re-established white political supremacy, would he (Mr.

Dolph), in such a case, advocate the passage of a law by Congress, the intent and effect of which would be to encourage, to stimulate and to sus-tain those Chinese in their effort to recover political power on race lines?" This was coming too straight home for the Oregonian, so he floundered around and tried to evade the question, but the gentleman from Louisiana held him to it, much to his discomfiture.

Senator Morgan then took the floor and read from the Constitution of Oregon a clause restricting the right of suffrage to the whites and forbidding intermarriages. "If Fred Douglas," he said, "the ablest and most respectable colored man in the country, were to go to Oregon with his white wife, whom he had legally married in the District of Columbia, the relations between him and his wife would be pronounced by the courts of Oregon as adulterous; and he would go to the penitentiary, and his wife along with him, for violating the law of that humane and lovely State."

Yet, in the face of these and other facts, the Senator from Oregon not only wants the negro vote in the Southern States, but wants election supervisors and deputy marshals to take charge of our elections and count him whether he votes or not, while his own State Constitution forbids it.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

Some Interesting Features of an Otherwise Uninteresting Document.

(Harpers Weekly.)

The President's message was a perfunctory statement of the public situation largely drawn from the department reports. It took no account of the late election, except by its statement that it would be unwise to modify the tariff until its actual results can be understood, and it argued with evident sincerity the passage of the election bill. But its argument upon this point is not comprehensive, nor that of a statesman. It is, in effect, that the existing law has been found useful, and that the proposed law merely extends its operation, and as it does not unjustly discriminate against any voter, and is designed only to secure an honest election, it cannot be properly opposed. This reason is wholly inadequate for its object. There is no question that elections should be fair and certificates honest. The real question of the election bill is whether in actual situation—a phrase which includes customs, traditions, and local feeling—the peculiar measure will probably secure the object sought. It involves also the further question whether the situation is not constantly improving by the operation of forces which are necessarily swifter and more effective than legislation. The situation, doubtless, is one of great difficulty.
General acquiescence in a confessed wrong seems to authorize wrong-doers to persevere. But that consideration is not an excuse for making the situation worse.

The message complacently expresses satisfaction with the operation of the reform law in the civil service. But there is a ludicrous disproportion between the platform declarations, with the President's own pledges upon the subject, and the slight formal allusion in the message. In general the President's alternative in preparing his message was simple. It was either to admit practically that he and his party had been discredited by the election, or to assume that the election was not a fair representation of public sentiment. Naturally he takes the latter horn of the dilemma, for nothing could have been more comical than a President's message stating that the country had decided against him and his party and that he and they were of the same mind upon questions of public policy, he could not recommend to a Republican Congress measures which neither he nor they approved. It is useless to reproach him for not recommending the Democratic programme to a Republican Congress.

For an Income Tax.

The farmers are doing a good deal of hard thinking these days, and it is bound to produce results. The National Farmers' Alliance has just put a plank in its platform in favor of a just and equitable graduated tax on incomes, and the country will indorse it. Under such a tax something can be done to prevent the $20,000 a day capitalist from growing richer and the $1 a day toiler from growing poorer. It is the concentration of too much wealth in the hands of the few that checks general prosperity.
The farmers are on the right line, and in this fight they are the people, for the people are with them.

Worthy the Honor.

The Governor will call a special election in Ohio county to fill the vacancy in the Constitutional Convention caused by the death of Hon. H. D. McHenry.
Several candidates are mentioned, among whom are Gen. Sam Hill and Rev. J. S. Coleman. It is said there is a strong disposition to elect Jno. J. Mc-Henry, the son of the deceased delegate.
It would be a fitting honor to confer upon him. He is in every way worthy of it. His grandfather served in the convention of '49.

AN HONOR UNSOUGHT.

Since the death of Hon. H. D. McHenry the people by common consent have looked to his son, John J. McHenry, to take his place in the Constitutional Convention. It is a beautiful sentiment, prompted by the purest motives and the highest respect for the memory of an honest and honorable citizen, and in this instance is bestowed upon a young man who is in every way worthy to succeed his father. John J. McHenry is a young man, well and favorably known by the people of the county, who see in him one perfectly competent to take up the arduous work laid down by his father. The Democratic Committee, in response to the calls of the people, endorsed him and he comes before the people in obedience to their calls and should receive their support on December 31.

We the citizens of Centertown and vicinity recognizing the calamity sustained in the death of our delegate to the Constitutional Convention, the Hon.
H. D. McHenry, and knowing the necessity of his successor to be elected, do most earnestly solicit his son, Jno. J.
McHenry to offer himself as a candidate to fill the unexpired term, and do pledge him our support:

ceived last evening at the time going to press.

To the Voters of Ohio County.

Having been solicited by the above petitions and by many friends in person to announce myself as a candidate to succeed my honored father in the Constitutional Convention, I hereby voluntarily and announce myself, principally for two reasons. First, it is the duty of a good citizen to obey the wishes of his friends and neighbors.

Second, because my family, friends and myself would deem it not only a great honor to me to succeed my lamented father, but we would feel that such an event would so overwhelmingly prove the love and confidence the people of the county bear to a citizen who commenced and ended a long life of public trusts in their midst.

In presenting myself for the first time to the public, I naturally feel some what timid in stating my cause, and the peculiar circumstances under which I do so, render it more embarrassing.

In asking the support of the voters of my native county to fill the high position to which I aspire, I do so with the assurance and the confidence of myself that I am capable of discharging the duties of the trust, although not in such an able manner as my worthy parent.

Having been born in your midst, reared with and among your children, educated in our home college and having passed my entire life among you, I feel that I am in full sympathy with the wants and needs of the people.

I request of you that you calmly review my past actions, and if you reach the conclusion that I am capable, sober, trustworthy and honorable, I ask that you give me your earnest support. In selecting your suffrages, I do not do so on my own account solely, but for and on behalf of him who has gone before me and who so nobly discharged every trust imposed upon him.

By choosing my father as delegate to the Convention the voters of the county endorsed and approved of the views, the sentiments and the opinions he advocated. Are you still of the same opinion you were last August? Do you wish the line of action begun by him to be carried out? If so, give me your support, as I represent the same sentiment, views and opinions held by him, and am in full sympathy with the work so nobly begun and which will require only a few weeks of deliberation by the Convention to finish.

The short time until the election and the recent bereavement that has befallen me, renders it impossible as well as improper for me to present myself before you in the customary manner, but believing and relying on the sound judgment and integrity of the people, I respectfully submit my claims for your suffrage, pledging myself to serve you honestly, faithfully and to the best of my ability.

Sincerely,
Jno. J. McHENRY.

HARTFORD, KY., Dec. 23, 1890.

ENDORSED BY THE DEMOCRATIC COMMIT-TEE.

We, the Democratic Committee assembled, having information that those gentlemen who have been spoken of as aspirants to fill the vacancy in the Constitutional Convention, caused by the death of Hon. H. D. McHenry, will not be candidates in opposition to Mr. Jno.
J. McHenry, and recognizing the integrity and personal worth of Mr. Mc-Henry we feel that it is fitting that he make the race. We, therefore, endorse Mr. Jno. J. McHenry as a candidate for the place, and we heartily recommend him to the Democracy and the people of the county and ask his hearty support from the voters of the county at the polls on December 31st.

The largest horse farm in the world is located 13 miles out from Cheyenne, Wy. The ranch contains 121,000 acres and is stocked with upwards of 7,000 horses, which requires the constant attention of 65 men. Over 300 miles of wire fences are required to keep the animals in bounds.

It is no use to say there is plenty of money somewhere in the country. It is hoarded by a few in the hands of speculative monopolists, and the people see very little of it. Practically there is hardly any cash in active circulation, and even if our entire currency, $22 per centa, changed hands briskly, still there would not be enough to meet the demands of business.

A correspondent of the Frankfort Roundabout has found a curiosity. He says: "A patriotic citizen of the Duckers neighborhood has a quilt which when completed will be a perfect map of Kentucky. The counties are marked by colors, their names being embroidered, and the rivers are worked in blue.
It will be a curiosity well worthy of a comparisons place at the World's Fair in 1892."

A man who has practiced medicine for 40 years, ought to know salt from sugar; read what he says:

TOLSON, O., Jan. 10, 1887.
MESSRS. F. J. CHENEY & CO., CHE-STER:—I have been in the general practice of medicine for 40 years, and would say that in all my practice and experience have never seen a preparation that I could prescribe with as much confidence of success as I can Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by you. Have prescribed it a great many times and its effect is wonderful, and would say in conclusion that I have yet to find a case of Catarrh that it would not cure, if they would take it according to directions. Yours truly, L. L. GOSSETT, M. D.
Office, 215 Summit St.

We will give $100 for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured with Hall's Catarrh Cure. Taken internally.

Election Notice.

THE COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY.
TO THE SHERIFF OF OHIO COUNTY: Whereas, information has been received of the death of Hon.
Henry D. McHenry, the delegate to the Constitutional Convention from Ohio county;

Now, therefore, I, S. B. Buckner, Governor of the Commonwealth aforesaid, in accordance with chapter 125, section 1 of the General Assembly, session of 1880-90, issue this my writ of election, and command that you cause a poll to be opened at the several voting places in your county, on ten days after the receipt of this writ, for the election of a delegate to the Constitutional Convention from Ohio county, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the said Hon. Henry D. McHenry.

IT IS TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have caused these letters to be made patent, and the seal of the Commonwealth to be hereunto affixed. Done at Frankfort, the 10th day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety, and of the ninety-ninth year of the Commonwealth.

S. B. BUCKNER.

By the Governor:
GEO. M. LEE, Secretary of State.
By Edward O. LEIGH, Asst. Sec'y of State.

In obedience to the above writ of election, I will, as sheriff of Ohio county, cause a poll to be opened at the various voting precincts in Ohio county on Wednesday, December 31, 1890, to elect a delegate to the Constitutional Convention to fill out the unexpired term of Hon. Henry D. McHenry.

S. C. TAYLOR, Sheriff Ohio county.

If your House is on Fire

You put water on the burning timbers, natch you should attack the disease in the blood, not in your nose. Remove the impure cause, and the local effect subsides. To do this, take Hood's Sas-saparilla, the great blood purifier, which radically and permanently cures catarrh. It also strengthens the nerves.
Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Card of Thanks.

I desire to extend my heart-felt thanks to the good people of my neighborhood for their kind attention shown my wife during her last illness. They were ready and willing to render any assistance necessary.

A DELEGATE JAILED.

G. D. Chambers, Hancock County's Delegate in the Constitutional Convention, on a "High Lonesome."

Mr. G. D. Chambers, member of the Constitutional Convention from Hancock county, stopped over in Louisville on his way home from Frankfort for the holidays, and succeeded in short order in getting himself into trouble and into jail. Mr. Chambers is a very popular young man, has made a useful member of the Convention, and his friends everywhere will regret to learn of the misfortune that has befallen him.

It appears that shortly after Mr.
Chambers arrived in the city, he began to drink and he kept this up until he was badly intoxicated. In this condition he caused trouble in Seelbach's Hotel. At last, unable to put up with his conduct any longer, Mr. Seelbach sent for Private Policeman, Charles McGrath, and had him arrested. All last night he remained in the station-house, and this morning he was arraigned in the city court. Allen Kinney appeared as his counsel and got him off with the payment of the fees and costs and a $5 fine.

Mr. Chambers was still in liquor, and went to Seelbach's Hotel to claim a value which he declared he had deposited there. He again became so boisterous that Mr. Seelbach had him arrested the second time. A search of his pockets showed letters addressed to G. D. Chambers, and he afterwards acknowledged himself to be a member of the Constitutional Convention. He talked a great deal of nonsense, and was finally committed to jail to get sober.
